Proposal No. 2: Issuance of Class C Shares by Third-Party Allotment

Shareholder approval is sought to issue Class C Shares (hereinafter referred to as “Class C Shares”) to REVIC by third-party allotment (hereinafter referred to as “this Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment”), in accordance with the provisions of the Companies Act, Article 199, as outlined in 1 below.

The implementation of this Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment is subject to the approval of Proposal No. 1 at this General Meeting of Shareholders and the approval of proposals containing the same content as Proposal No. 1 at the Class A Class Shareholders Meeting and Class B Class Shareholders Meeting scheduled to be decided by written resolutions by the date of this Extraordinary General Meeting of Shareholders. In addition to the above, the investment agreement concluded with REVIC (hereinafter referred to as “this Investment Agreement”) is subject to the following conditions precedent: ① acquisition of approvals for all proposals at this Extraordinary General Meeting of Shareholders; ② a purchase decision, etc. by REVIC in accordance with the Act on Regional Economy Vitalization Corporation of Japan (REVIC Act), Article 31, paragraph 1; ③ the Company acquiring, without consideration, all of the Class A Shares of the Company held by MUFG Bank and the Class B Shares of the Company held by MUFG Trust, and cancellation of those shares; and ④ completion of all procedures required under the Financial Instruments and Exchange Act and other relevant laws and regulations.

If Class C Shares are allotted to REVIC through this Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment, the dilution ratio for the number of voting rights associated with the number of issued shares of Class C Shares (1,155,046 voting rights) will be equivalent to approximately 200%, using the number of voting rights associated with the total number of shares issued by the Company as of March 31, 2024 (575,082 voting rights) as the denominator. In addition, the Class C Shares are expected to confer a claim to acquisition enabling their holders to acquire four Common Shares of the Company for each Class C Share, at any time (however, this Investment Agreement provides that such a claim will be exercisable from August 2027). If this claim to acquisition is exercised, and Class C Shares are converted into Common Shares of the Company, the dilution ratio for the number of voting rights associated with the Company’s common shares (4,620,184 voting rights) will be equivalent to approximately 803%, using the number of voting rights associated with the total number of shares issued by the Company as of March 31, 2024 (575,082 voting rights) as the denominator.

Hence, since the dilution ratio associated with this Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment will be equivalent to 25% or more and involve a change in the controlling shareholder, shareholder approval is sought for this proposal at this Extraordinary General Meeting of Shareholders, in accordance with Rule 432 of the Securities Listing Regulations of the Tokyo Stock Exchange.

If Class C Shares are allocated to REVIC through this Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment, REVIC will hold approximately 66.8% of the voting rights, and REVIC will be a Special Subscriber as defined in the Companies Act, Article 206-2, paragraph 1. Therefore, this proposal also serves as a resolution for approval by the General Meeting of Shareholders (special resolution) for the allotment of subscribed shares to the Special Subscriber as provided for in the Companies Act, Article 206-2, paragraph 4.

2. Purpose of and reason for the subscription

(1) Background and objectives of this Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment

The Company was founded in 1889 as Amagasaki Boseki, and from 1918 led the Japanese spinning industry as Dainippon Boseki, one of the three major spinning companies. In 1969, the Company merged with group company Nippon Rayon to form Unitika, a general textile manufacturer. While working to diversify its business since then, the Company has carved out a long history. It has been 135 years since the birth of Amagasaki Boseki and we are celebrating 55 years since the founding of Unitika. During that time, the economic environment has changed significantly. Our founding textile business has been exposed to a difficult business environment as Japan's industrial landscape evolved. In the past 30 years, we have engaged in restructuring and reform efforts to downsize our fiber business while simultaneously shifting our focus to the highly profitable polymers business.

In that context, although there was a temporary improvement in our business performance and financial position, it is difficult to assert that our active investments in growth areas were entirely successful, and we were unable to complete comprehensive restructuring and reform. Since FY 2017, both net sales and operating profit have continued on a downward trend. Yet, due to factors such as changes in the business environment because of the COVID-19 pandemic from the beginning of FY 2020, there has been a slight recovery in sales. In May 2020, we announced our long-term vision "G-STEP30" looking ahead to the year 2030. Subsequently, in May 2023, we formulated a new medium-term management plan, "G-STEP30 2nd," as a second step toward achieving the goals of our long-term vision. We continued our efforts on the themes of our long-term vision, "G-STEP30," "The three Gs – Growth, Global, and Governance," and implemented our Sustainability Plan, "Prosperity, Planet, and People." Through these efforts, we were aiming to steadily strengthen our business earnings and lay the foundations for growth. In the business year ended March 31, 2024, the Company posted an operating loss for the first time since the start of consolidated financial reporting. This was due to factors including cost increases caused by the weak yen along with soaring raw material and fuel prices, reduced demand associated with changed market conditions, falling unit sale prices in the polymers business given intensification of competition overseas especially in Southeast Asia, and lower earnings due to commoditization in apparel fibers. In addition, the recognition of impairment losses led to the Company recording a net loss for the period of 5.4 billion yen. In FY 2024, although there is some prospect that we may secure an operating profit through reductions in personnel costs and other temporary measures, we are yet to achieve a substantive recovery in earning power.

Despite repeated efforts at restructuring and reform, that the Company has reached its current situation is due to these efforts having been limited to individual measures targeting low-margin and non-core businesses. We recognize that a major contributing factor was that we had not stepped in to take comprehensive measures in each of our businesses related to apparel fibers and polyester fibers, which had latent issues such as a fundamental decline in profitability and a rigid cost structure. In addition, in recent years, against the backdrop of changes in social and economic conditions at the global level, the Company has experienced cost increases due to persistently high raw material and fuel prices, reduced demand associated with changed market conditions, intensified price competition in overseas markets centering on Southeast Asia, and the transformation of markets, including overseas markets. At the same time as businesses facing these challenges continue to operate at a loss, even the Polymers business, which forms the core of the Group's earnings, is facing new challenges, such as overcapacity of overseas subsidiaries that handle nylon film which aggressively expanded their production capacity, leading to higher costs and a significant decline in our business earning capacity. Hence, the Company faces an urgent need to improve the profitability of these operations.

Since our founding, we have played a role as a member of Japan's manufacturing industry through our textile business and the other various businesses derived from it. We aim to continue making the most of the accumulated technologies that we have cultivated in the domestic chemical and materials industry to remain a company that can contribute to Japan's economy and society in the future. To realize our aim and to achieve sustainable growth into the future, after raising sufficient financing, we will review businesses with structural problems, carry out comprehensive restructuring and reform, including a review of the head office structure, incorporating thorough cost reductions, as well as invest in promising businesses such as the polymers business to promote business growth.

Such restructuring and reform will require large-scale financing and recapitalization. However, in our current financial state and profitability situation, we are unable to raise sufficient financing. In addition, the Company is burdened with excessive interest-bearing liabilities relative to its earning power, and, with weak equity capital, we are unable to undertake comprehensive reform that would erode our capital. In considering all options for strengthening its financial foundations, including accepting capital from outside sources, the Company deemed that the best course of action was to apply for revitalization support from REVIC based on factors including ① new capital investment would be possible, ② receiving support from turnaround specialists would help maintain and improve corporate value and creditworthiness, and ③ it would be possible to coordinate the interests of financial institution partners. After consultations with MUFG Bank, we decided to apply to REVUC for revitalization support and formulated this business revitalization plan. Under the revitalization support of REVIC, we plan to strengthen our financial foundations and creditworthiness through obtaining financing from REVIC via this Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment, requesting financial support from financial institution partners through transparent and fair procedures, as well as restructuring and reform of our challenged businesses and thorough cost reductions, while avoiding eroding our corporate value as far as possible. Furthermore, we plan to revitalize our business through comprehensive business restructuring focused on strengthening the earnings power in our profitable businesses. The Board of Directors of the Company, at the meeting held on November 28, 2024, resolved that the Company and its group companies, Nippon Ester Co., Ltd., and Unitika Sparklite Co., Ltd. (hereinafter collectively referred to as "the Companies"), jointly with MUFG Bank, submit the business revitalization plan and the application for revitalization support to REVIC. On the same day, the Company received notice from REVIC regarding the revitalization support decision.

(2) Rationale for selecting this Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment

The Company has, when raising financing, considered various financing approaches from the perspective of aiming to stabilize our financial position while taking into consideration the impact on our existing shareholders. However, given our financial situation and our circumstances having requested financial support including debt waivers from financial institution partners, to fundamentally improve our financial position, we believe that it is necessary and appropriate to strengthen our equity capital through equity financing, rather than debt financing via borrowings from financial institutions or bond issuance.

Regarding the issuance of Common Shares through a public offering, the final amount of financing is uncertain. As the Company needs to ensure a certain amount of financing is raised, we have determined that this is not an appropriate option at this time. In addition, regarding the allotment of new share subscription rights free of charge allocating new share subscription rights or share allotment allocating shares to our existing shareholders, not all new subscription rights may be exercised given it is dependent upon shareholders' judgment based on stock price trends and other factors. As not all share allotments may be taken up, similarly, the final amount of financing raised is uncertain. As the Company needs to ensure a certain amount of financing is raised, we have determined that this is not an appropriate option at this time. Furthermore, the feasibility of issuing Common Shares through a Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment was determined to be low during the process of examining the allottees and the subscription amount.

Other approaches, such as a so-called management buyout involving a takeover bid are also possible. However, this approach would require funds for share acquisition separately on top of the funds that would be required for restructuring and reform. Existing shareholders would be required to sell their shares, which would have a greater impact than this Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment. In addition, while ensuring the opportunity for existing shareholders to sell their shares, we expect that the implementation of the business revitalization plan, with the execution of this Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment, will drastically improve and strengthen the Company's financial situation and increase its corporate value through sustainable growth in the future. Therefore, we believe that maintaining the Company's listing, rather than taking the Company's shares private, and executing this business revitalization plan may contribute to further growth in the Company's share value.

In such circumstances, to resolve the situation, as described above, the Company in consultation with MUFG Bank, decided to apply to REVIC for revitalization support. We determined that raising financing through a Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment to REVIC is the best course of action since receiving support from experts in business revitalization will improve our corporate value and creditworthiness. During discussions and negotiations between the Company and REVIC regarding financing through a Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment, the Company concluded that a Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment via preferred shares allows for the reflection of the Company's current situation in the terms and conditions of the shares. In addition, from REVIC's perspective, in order for the Company to implement this business revitalization plan, there is a requirement to maintain governance over the Company by holding voting rights. Thus, a Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment via preferred shares with voting rights allocated to REVIC is the most appropriate financing approach for the challenging financial situation in which the Company finds itself.

As stated above, REVIC qualifies as a Special Subscriber as defined in the Companies Act, Article 206-2, paragraph 1. In this regard, at the meeting of the Board of Directors held on November 28, 2024, all four of the Company's Audit & Supervisory Board Members, including the two outside Audit & Supervisory Board Members, concluded that, in implementing the Company's business revitalization plan, based on the basic policy of thorough selection and concentration of its businesses, involving REVIC in the Company's business revitalization, a public entity established under the REVIC Act with the approval of the competent minister and an expert in business revitalization, as a shareholder holding more than two-thirds of the Company's total voting rights is also the best approach for our existing shareholders. In addition, the effective dilution rate immediately after this Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment is approximately 200%, and the conversion period to Common Shares is gradual from August 2027, and it is believed that due consideration has been given to addressing rapid dilution. In light of these and other points, the view is that this Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment to REVIC, a Special Subscriber as defined in the Companies Act, Article 206-2, paragraph 1 is reasonable.

- If the Group's operating profit falls below 70% of the planned amount in the business revitalization plan or the Group's profit and loss plan upon which the business revitalization plan was based
- Significant change or termination of a material contract that, in REVIC's judgment, would have a material impact on the Group's management
- A breach or potential breach of the Investment Agreement by the Companies

3. Rationale pertaining to issuance terms, etc.

(1) Basis for calculating the paid-in amount and specific details

The Company requested an analysis of the value of the Class C Shares from Akasaka International Accounting Co., Ltd. (hereinafter referred to as "Akasaka International Accounting"), a third-party valuation firm independent of the Company, REVIC, and the Company's financial institution partners, to ensure fairness in determining the issuance terms and conditions of this Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment, and subsequently obtained a Valuation Report on the Class Shares from Akasaka International Accounting. Akasaka International Accounting conducted a valuation analysis of the Class C Shares using a binomial model, a common valuation model, making certain assumptions about the range of estimated values of the Company's Common Shares, share price volatility, estimated dividend amount, risk-free interest rate, as well as the actions of the Company and the actions of the allottees, etc. The results of the valuation analysis of the Class C Shares are as follows.

Total amount:	From approximately ¥19,280 million to approximately ¥20,038 million
Per share:	From approximately ¥166.93 to approximately ¥173.49

With regard to the issuance terms and conditions for this Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment, considering not only the above valuation results in the valuation report on the value of the Class Shares by Akasaka International Accounting, an independent third-party valuation firm, but also taking into account the business environment and our financial situation, the necessity of improving the Company's financial situation, the steady execution of this business revitalization plan, the balance with financial support including debt waivers from our financial institution partners, REVIC's intentions regarding the form of its investment, and other factors determined through repeated discussions and negotiations with REVIC, we comprehensively conclude that the amount to be paid in for the Class C Shares is reasonable and does not constitute a particularly favorable amount under the Companies Act.

However, there is no objective market price for the Class C Shares. Furthermore, since the valuation of the Class C Shares is extremely complicated and there may be various opinions on valuation methods, the possibility that the amount to be paid in for the Class C Shares may be judged to be particularly favorable cannot be completely ruled out. Therefore, given the inherent uncertainty the Company has decided to issue the Class C Shares subject to obtaining approval at this Extraordinary General Meeting of Shareholders by a special resolution regarding favorable issuance in accordance with the Companies Act, Article 199, paragraph 2, Article 238, paragraph 3, item 2, and Article 240, paragraph 1.

All four of the Company's Audit & Supervisory Board Members including the two outside Audit & Supervisory Board Members conclude that: Akasaka International Accounting is recognized as an independent third-party valuation firm separate from the Company, REVIC and the Company's financial institution partners; there is nothing particularly unreasonable about the valuation of the Class C Shares or the valuation methodology used by Akasaka International Accounting; and the issuance terms and conditions for this Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment were determined as the result of discussions and negotiations with REVIC; thus, the paid-in amount for the Class C Share, which is within the valuation range calculated by Akasaka International Accounting, is deemed to be a reasonable amount; however, since there is no market price for the Class Shares, and there could be a variety of approaches on the valuation, the possibility remains that the amount could be deemed to be particularly favorable; therefore, from the perspective of confirming the intent of the shareholders, it is deemed reasonable that the Company has decided to obtain a special resolution at the General Meeting of Shareholders.

(2) Basis for determining that the quantity of the issuance and scale of share dilution are reasonable

The 115,504,600 Class C Shares (1,155,046 voting rights) to be issued in connection with this Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment represent approximately 199% (approximately 200% of voting rights) of the Company's total number of shares issued as of March 31, 2024 of 57,752,343 shares (575,082 total voting rights as of March 31, 2024). In addition, the Class C Shares are expected to confer a claim to acquisition enabling their holders to acquire four Common Shares of the Company for each Class C Share, at any time (however, this Investment Agreement provides that such a claim shall be exercisable from August 2027). If this claim to acquisition is exercised, the dilution ratio for the potential votes arising from the issuance of Class C Shares shall be approximately 803%.

Thus, if the Company's Common Shares are issued as a result of the exercise of the claim to acquisition to Class C Shares, share dilution will occur. However, the Company believes that: ① the issuance of Class C Shares will enable it to eliminate excessive debt, fundamentally improve and strengthen its financial position, and secure costs including those of restructuring and reform necessary to implement the business revitalization plan; ② obtaining funds through this Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment will contribute to the strengthening of our business foundations and stable growth; ③ in light of the Company's situation and business performance, we have considered various alliance possibilities with several companies. However, we have been unable to find a sponsor within the limited time frame that has shown a supportive attitude to consider investment in all of our businesses on terms and conditions more favorable than those for the proposed investment by REVIC; ④ the Company determined that receiving revitalization support from REVIC, a public entity, is the best approach given REVIC's shareholding in the Company is expected to enhance the Company's creditworthiness, and enable coordination of the interests of our financial institution partners, capital investment, as well as access to support from business revitalization experts; ⑤ The effective dilution immediately after this Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment is approximately 200%. The conversion period to Common Shares by Class C Shareholders is phased in gradually from August 2027, as stipulated in the Investment Agreement, and it is believed that due consideration has been given to addressing rapid dilution; ⑥ REVIC has a policy of holding shares for the medium term and has indicated that it expects to dispose of the shares mainly through third-party transfers; ⑦ Under the Investment Agreement, REVIC is required to disclose information in relation to potential buyers to the Company, within the scope permitted by laws and regulations, at the time of the share transfer; ⑧ The Company may use the disclosure of information from REVIC as an opportunity to express its intentions to REVIC (however, REVIC is not bound by the Company's intentions); ⑨ Financing obtained through this Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment is to be provided to REVIC, a public entity established under the REVIC Act with the approval of the competent minister; ⑩ In light of the expectation that the implementation of this business revitalization plan is expected to improve shareholder returns in the future, etc. We believe that even taking into consideration the large-scale dilution due to this Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment, it is still reasonable to implement this Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment.

Proposal No. 3: Partial Amendments to the Articles of Incorporation (2)

1. Reasons for Amendments

This proposal is in preparation for conversion of Class C Shares into Common Shares after the implementation of this Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment. Shareholder approval by special resolution is sought for the following amendments: ① Changing the total number of authorized shares to 519,770,743 shares, and the total authorized number of Common Shares to 519,770,743 shares, at the same time, in light of the current Companies Act; along with ② Changing the persons subject to the limited liability agreement stipulated in the Companies Act, Article 427, Paragraph 1 from “Outside Director” and “Outside Auditor” to “Non-Executive Directors” and “Audit & Supervisory Board Member.”

This partial amendment to the Articles of Incorporation becomes effective on the condition that this Capital Increase by way of Third-Party Allotment is implemented.
